C. Career Goals and Relevant Experiences

Describe educational and personal experiences that you consider relevant to your career goals. WORD COUNT LIMIT = 500 words. Please also note that the Leadership Program is intended for individuals who aspire to careers in which research will be a significant element of the individual's professional activities. It is not intended for individuals who see their future in private veterinary practice, except as a stepping stone to a career in which one can more broadly influence the profession.

5. How do you think participating in the Cornell Leadership Program might help you achieve your career goal? (word count limit = 80 words)

6. What problem(s) in veterinary science would you like to contribute to solving during your career? (word count limit = 80 words)

E. Transcripts
Please append official undergraduate and veterinary college transcripts to this form

F. Curriculum Vitae
Please append a complete account of the information listed below, to this form.

Academic and Professional Honors
Specify name, purpose, sponsor and date of each award.

Work Experience
Include all work experience whether part-time, full-time or voluntary

Publications (if applicable)
It is recognized that many prospective applicants may have had little or no research experience. For those who have, and have published their findings, the following information is requested:

- 1. Each citation should list the authors (in published sequence), full title, journal, volume, page number(s) and year of publication*
- 2. Submit photocopies, or PDF files of each of the three most significant publications. The latter may include manuscripts accepted for publication or submitted for publication if appropriately identified.*

Personal Interests and Achievements
Describe activities or hobbies in which you have participated, any awards you have received as well as organizations in which you have had an administrative or leadership role.

G. Reference Names/Institutions
It is important that references be carefully selected. The individual writing a letter in support of your application (referee) should be able to comment on your qualifications for a career in your chosen field of study. At least two reference letters, but no more than four, should be submitted with the application.

Referees will need the "Guidance for Referees" letter (see next page) well before the application deadline so that the letter can be included with all other application material. Please note that all reference letters should be sealed and signed across the front of the envelope and appended with this application form.

GUIDANCE FOR REFEREES

[Applicants: Please fill in this page and send electronically or print and give a copy to each person you have nominated to write a letter of reference in support of your application]

Name of nominated referee:

Thank you for agreeing to write a confidential letter of reference for: _____ (applicant's name) in support of his/her application for the Cornell Leadership Program for Veterinary Students. Your letter of reference will be of great help to the selection committee in evaluating this application. The main criteria used in the selection process are:

- Academic record
- Work experience
- Research accomplishments (if relevant)
- Personal achievements
- Leadership potential
- Demonstrated interest in a research career.

Please feel free to provide any information or make any comments that you think would assist the selection committee. However, it would be particularly helpful if you could comment in your letter of reference on the following attributes of the applicant:

- Enthusiasm for different tasks of work and study
- Communication skills, both oral and in writing
- Ability to work as a team member
- Ability to work harmoniously with others
- Ability to participate actively in group discussions
- Interests and achievements outside veterinary studies
- Career ambitions.

Please include this information sheet with your letter of reference. References can be returned to the applicant in a sealed envelope (please sign across the seal) addressed as follows:

"Confidential Reference for (name of applicant)
Cornell Leadership Program"

OR

Send electronically by email to Prof. John Parker (jsp7@cornell.edu). Please ENTITLE the Email: Leadership Program reference for (name of applicant)

If sending electronically please send as a signed PDF or word document file.

Application material is due December 12, 2011.

Thank you very much for your assistance.
