At the dedication of the True Companions Memorial in June 1999, hospital clients William and Joan Gruver placed one of the first medallions in memory of their dog and best friend, Gussie. At the ceremony, Mr. Gruver said, "We should recognize [our companion animals] in perpetuity for the love they give us. It is part of our responsibility to them to create memorials in recognition of all they give to us and to our society."

In Memoriam

Time passes.

Friends may come and go.

*But the love of
a True Companion
touches your life forever.*

Cornell University

From the time they come home with us, our animal companions are members of our family. A lifelong friendship and bond can be created. But when it is time to say good-bye to our loyal pets, the loss can leave a gaping void, as well as a desire to honor these special companions with a lasting tribute.

True Companions

A True Companion medallion offers a unique way to pay tribute to a pet or a special person while supporting the important work of Cornell University Hospital for Animals. For a contribution of $500, a beautiful metal medallion of your choice will be etched with your short message. One medallion and a display stand will be sent to you, and a duplicate medallion will be added permanently to the True Companions Memorial in the Cornell University Companion Animal Hospital.

To recognize a True Companion, return this completed form with your check. Once your order is received, it will take about four to six weeks for your medallion to be sent to you.

In memory of a True Companion, who has touched your life forever

Yes! I want to honor a True Companion. The name of the animal or person I wish to honor is:
